BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR A WEE BOY

GROWNUPS AS WELL AS PLAYMATES ENJOY A VERY MERRY AFTERNOON

Yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Reymann entertained at their home on Ellis street to celebrate the birthday of their little son, John Donald Reymann. The children invited were: Malita Hoxie, Blanche Hoxie, Robert Nixon, James Devas, Florence White, Anna Young, Harold Young, Clifton Piercy, Francis Piercy, Marian Taylor, Marian Luce, Verda Luce, Kenneth Bayless, Olivia Bowman, Ivan Kelz, Marjorie Mullen, John Donald Reymann. The grown-ups were: Mesdames M. L. Nixon, J. J. Kelz, George White, W. Davis, M. G. Haigh, J. W. Reymann, W. M. Bowman, W. M. Reymann, and John's grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Reymann.

All the children had a good time playing until Mrs. Reymann called them to the dining room. The decorations were attractive in green, pink and white.

The smilex that was used at sent from Mrs. Reymann's home at Culterville, Cal., by her mother, Mrs. J. P. Haigh. In the center of the table on the large white birthday cake were burned two tiny pink candles to remind those present that John had reached the second milestone in the pathway of life. On the pretty little place cards were pictures of John. After all had enjoyed the refreshments it was time to go, but the children lingered because they were having such a pleasant time. But little hands were soon waving "Good-bye, John," and all said it was a very enjoyable afternoon and wished their little friend that he may live to see many, many birthdays.

HEAVIEST FALL OF RAIN EVER RECORDED

PRECIPITATION LAST NIGHT HALF AN INCH, WITH MORE PROMISED

The precipitation for the past twenty-four hours, up to 5 o'clock this morning, as recorded by the Tonopah weather observer, was fifty hundredths of an inch. This makes the total since March 1, 2.27 inches. All records for the season, for the past nine years, are broken. The next heaviest precipitation was 1.77 inches, in 1911. The forecast is for continued showers, which will still further raise the record.

REPORT RENDERED BY AUTO ENTHUSIASTS

the Pacific coast by way of Salt Lake City.

"Mr. Arnold, recognizing the importance to southern California of diverting as much of that travel as possible to Los Angeles, conceived the idea and took the initiative for improvement of this road by sending a Hudson six organization car over the route for the purpose of improving and sign-posting the road so that motorists, when they arrived in Salt Lake City, and thence over the Lincoln highway to Ely, would find from there a road so thoroughly sign-posted and so greatly improved that they would have confidence in continuing on that route to Los Angeles.

"With that end in view," continued Parker, "W. W. Pedder and myself organized each county along the route into a good roads association, secured the necessary funds for immediately reconstructing the rough portions of the road and pledged each county for funds in sufficient amount to sign-post the road every mile of the distance from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles."

The later action taken by the Automobile club in establishing a second set of signs over the same route, is commendable, from our point of view, as it will still further strengthen the opinion of motorists that Los Angeles is certainly enterprising in providing a sufficient number of signs so that no one traveling over the road can for any reason get off the Los Angeles route.

But the Automobile club in providing signs at the important points of the route, will hardly be able to do it in the thorough manner which the various counties along the route have provided for in the very complete system which was planned by Messrs. Pedder and Parker.

Their conception of this work had been so complete that not only will direction signs guide the motorists at all forks and cross-roads, but at many intermediate points along the route the motorists will find "Confidence" stakes, which are constructed of 2-inch pipe, painted in a distinctive manner, protruding from the ground about 2 1/2 feet. These "Confidence" signs are placed in the long stretches to assure the motorist that he has not inadvertently passed his sign or turn.

THE SPOILERS AT BUTLER THEATRE

After all has been said, the greatest picture of them all will be seen at the Butler this evening, in the big Selig nine-reel production of "The Spoilers" with Kathryn Williams and William Farnum and an all-star cast. This picture—taken from the famous Alaska story of Rex Beach, has created more favorable comment, and has been shown to more people than any other picture ever produced. All those who have ever been in Alaska, or who have read the famous book, are familiar with all the characters in the picture, making it all the more interesting. It is a picture that will always bear a return date, and there have been so many requests from our patrons for a return of this picture, and in order to please them we are giving them an opportunity of seeing it again. The film that will be shown tonight is a brand new one, this being the fourth time it has ever been put on the screen so the picture is sure to be in fine physical condition.

William N. Selig's selection fit the "types" for the northern romance so admirably, that they cannot be surpassed. William Farnum was engaged to fill the difficult and dauntless role of Roy Glenister, the hero, who, from being a civilized individual, reverts almost to the man primitive. He lives out his motto: "What I want I take,"—but his better part is eventually touched through the sweet and refining influence of a pure woman, to again return the true man militant. Every phase of this difficult character was finely and strongly drawn, never hesitant, and ever inspired by the motive of the moment—the book hero becoming one in reality.

There will be two shows tonight, the first starting at 6:30 and the second one at 9 p. m. Everyone is urged to be in their seats early to see the picture from the beginning. Monday, our second weekly feature, with which the theatergoing public are all familiar, "Shore Acres," featuring Charles A. Stevenson in James A. Herne's masterpiece in five parts.
